Introduction :

Social studies participated largely in deepening the understanding of the human nature, the individual relationship with the others living in his society, the relationship of this society with other societies, methods of controlling behavior and modifying it in the individual during his dealing with the social environment and how to fit with the social values and customs for the society individuals and how to maintain them without affecting the others, the effect of values on individual behavior, smoothing the behavior toward social normality to interact with others by what is acquired of value behavior as individual in the human group to interact socially.

Social control is the method which the social system work to maintain its structure and principles then how the individuals accept it and the other social classes to this method and the pressures of control forces. In other words, the forces of the society on his individuals and methods and standards put to control and supervise their behaviors and thinking styles and work to ensure the health of the social structure and keeping its positions and systems away from deviation, from this appears the importance of control for the relationship between the social system and the individual and the relationship between the unit and the total.

Values sets are group of values that is fostered by those participating in the social group as directors for their behavior and these values are the responsible for the balance and unity and achieve coherence and offer a shape to the social work and give it a meaning.

One could see the coherence of the sports team as the line that join the sports team members and maintain the relationships between different individuals and sports team coherence could be defined from two fields :

1- The sports team coherence is sum of forces that directthe players toward the team, i.e. the sum of forces that pull the players continuously toward being member in the sports team.

2- Sports team coherence is the sum of forces pushing toward keeping the team and preventing his break down.

So this research represent a trial to study the characteristics of social control and value groups of the coach on the coherence of the sports team and their results in Arab Republic of Egypt.

Research problem :

The concept of social control for the individual and group behavior is of the theoretical problems in the social sciences as the actions of others affect his works and expectation and we find many of these problem in different styles and many patterns of actions for the individuals.

Social control take punishment as a method to put his judges and applying the social terms, this mean that punishment is the exit of control forces from steady state to action state and punishment has two features :

It may be positive like thanking for behavior and reinforcing it and rewarding the social individuals keeping the control bases.

The negative feature is represented in different punishment of the society on every one who violate the organizing principles or try to differ from the society customs.

From the methods of social control is the social values which are considered popular method has great link to achievement of the group favour and keeping society structure.

As social control is a social process that has its own dimensions and function that work on group coherence and from time to time destroy the elements of social weakness that may affect the group and individuals that was found in the sports teams as a group of moral values, habits, customs and social standards that each individual that want to join the team to be a members in the team group must undergone these methods.

It is noticed that the players behaviour is affected largely by the coach style in using punishment in both positive or negative styles and his efficiency in using his authorities in keep principles and laws of the team, the abuse of the coaches authorities and social control could participate in occurrence of many fights between coach and players and between players and each other, which cause angry from players towards the coach and on the sports team group which cause breakdown of the sports team group.

From the previous we could determine the current research problem in that it is a study for the features of social control and values system of the coach on the sports team solidarity and the team results in Arab Republic of Egypt.

The research importance :

The importance of this research is in being a trial to know the effect of social control features whether positive or negative and the effect of the values system of the coach on sports team group solidarity, in addition to knowing the relationship between social control features and value system for the coach and effect of that on sports team group which help in knowing some of the negative features that could affect the sports team group that could affect the sports team solidarity and make the team angry and could lead to sports team group breakdown in addition to the effect of this on technical and group performance of the sports team in sports competition.

After review of previous researches and studies related to research subject, it is noticed that the researches in the Egyptian and Arabic environment did not complete screening of this field aspects and physical education researches in Egypt did not deal with studying like these research variables although it is important and participate in discovering the elements of social weakness that could affect some sports team negatively.

The research aims :

This research aims to know :

1- The relationship between social control features of the coach and the sports team solidarity and results.

4- Psychological mood of the sports team test designed by Mohamed Alawi.

Statistical analysis :

      The statistical methods that is suitable to the study will be used as : arithmetic mean- standard deviation- skewness- correlation- analysis of variance in two ways- significance of difference- analysis of logistic regression).

- Research procedure steps :

- Review of literature and previous studies.

- Preparing the theoretical part of the variables under research.

- Designing the tests suggested to be used in this research.

- Applying the suggested tests on the research sample.

- Making the statistically analysis to test the hypotheses.

- Presenting results and its discussion.

- Presenting recommendation of the study.
